packet.

Use the questions/ prompts on the Discourse Card resource to start a conversation about something the student has read. You may talk about a text the child read in one of the lessons above, or anything else the child is reading.

Encourage daily reading. And remember, reading isn't just about the books on the shelves—it's about anything around you with letters! Turn on the closed captioning feature on your TV or read catalogs that come in the mail. The backs of cereal boxes work, too, as do directions to board games!

Running out of stuff to read? Grab some sticky notes, and label household objects, or make up new, silly names for things! Communicating with sticky notes, instead of talking, is fun, too—start with a half hour and see if you can go all afternoon. Reading is everywhere!

Don't worry about right/wrong answers when you talk about text—the important thing is that you and your student share a reading experience and have fun!

Lesson 8

Determining the Central Message

Learning Target

Use the key details and events of a story to figure out the central message, or lesson, that the author wants to share with readers.

- Read Many stories have a central message, or lesson, the author wants to share. The story teaches the lesson through the characters, the events that happen, and what the characters learn.

As you read, looking for the key details will help you to find the central message and understand what you read.

Look at the cartoon. Think about a lesson the boy learns by the end.

- Think The events in the cartoon tell about a problem the boy has and what he does. Complete the chart by adding the key details. Use those details to figure out the central message of the cartoon.

Key Detail	Key Detail	Key Detail

What Is the Central Message?

- Talk Using the key details in the chart, talk about the central message of the cartoon.

Academic Talk

Use these phrases to talk about the text.

The Girl and the Apples

by Tala Rutchel

- 1 One fall afternoon, a girl went to a farm to pick apples. She was in a hurry, so she picked carelessly both ripe apples and unripe ones. When she finished, her wagon was filled with a small mountain of apples.
- 2 The girl asked the farmer, "Quick, tell me how long you think it will take me to get back home."
- 3 The farmer thought carefully. Then he said, "Be patient. If you go slowly, you will be back soon. If you go fast, you will not get back until night. It's your choice."
- 4 The girl thought, "How can that be? How can it take so long if I go fast?"
- 5 The girl wanted to get back home as soon as possible, so she rushed her horse and wagon onto the road. She made her horse walk very fast.
- 6 And suddenly . . . bump! Off fell some apples.
- 7 Every time she hit a bump, more apples rolled off her wagon. Then she had to stop and put them back on the wagon. Because of all the delays, it was night before she got home.

Tools for Instruction

From Retelling to Summarizing

To retell a story, students recall details or events in order. Summarizing also requires students to recall, but it involves greater understanding of the importance of particular events or details. To summarize, students tie together key events and details to form concise statements. Provide practice with this skill by modeling how to consolidate and categorize—for example, replacing pencils, paper, notebooks, folders with the general term school supplies. This skill is central to summarizing, and helps students learn how to eliminate unimportant information and capture the main idea from what remains.

Step by Step 30–45 minutes

1 Introduce and explain summarizing.

- Introduce summarizing by connecting it to retelling, a skill students have already learned to do. Say, When you retell a story, you tell details and events in the order they happened.
- Demonstrate a retelling by recounting the details from a classroom activity that took place earlier in the day.

This morning I had you all sit on the rug for our morning meeting. We sat in a circle, and we talked about today's weather, and Josh asked a question about snowflakes. Then we talked about the book that we were going to read during story time, and Marissa and Evan shared stories that were related to the topic of the book.

- Then say, You can use what you know about retelling to summarize. When you summarize, you tell about the details, just like with retelling. But you make it much shorter by only telling the most important details.
- Use the same information from the retelling to summarize.

This morning we gathered for our morning meeting. We talked about today's weather and about the book that we were going to read later on at story time.

2 Model summarizing text.

- Say, Summarizing is a good way to remember what you read. Let's summarize a story together. Then read aloud a story, such as A Bargain for Frances, by Russell Hoban.
- As you read, pause occasionally to model how you summarize.

Frances is on her way to Thelma's, and she is taking her dolls. She sings a silly song along the way. These are interesting details, but I'm not sure I need to remember them all. Since they're all about Frances going to Thelma's, I can summarize these two pages like this: Frances is going to play at Thelma's.

- Record and display summary statements as you generate them.

Support English Learners Summarizing requires that students understand how ideas and details are connected, which requires some background knowledge. Try to select texts that match students' background knowledge, and fill in gaps as needed.

3 Provide guided practice with summarizing text.

- Continue reading, and pause to engage students in summarizing with you. Focus attention on specific summarizing skills, such as combining related information.

Thelma offers to sell Frances her cups and saucers, sugar bowl, cream pitcher, and teapot. This is a long list to remember! When readers summarize, they think about how lists like this are related. Think about how these things Thelma is selling are alike. What is a name we can give them? (tea set) So how can we summarize this page? (Thelma offers to sell Frances her tea set.)

- Continue to record summary statements.
- When you have finished reading, read the summary statements in order for a summary of the entire story.

4 Provide repeated practice with summarizing text.

- Use additional read alouds to provide frequent practice with summarizing.
- Provide these question prompts to help students transfer summarizing to independent reading.

- What are the most important things about _____?
- What's interesting about _____ but not so important?
- Can you think of one word to describe _____, _____, and _____?
- What is a shorter way to tell what happened when _____?

Connect to Writing Have students divide a sheet of paper into as many boxes as chapters in the book, or into three sections for beginning, middle, and end. As they read independently or listen to read alouds, have students draw and/or write the most important ideas, one per box.

You might say, What's another way to tell what's happening when students tidy up their desks, put on their jackets, and line up by the door? (It's time to go home.) Relate this to combining events in a story.

Sharing the Crops

a folktale from England

- 1 Once a farmer rented some land. “How much does it cost to use this land?” the farmer asked the landowner.
- 2 The owner wanted to get the better part of the deal. So he said, “I’ll take the top half of the crop, and you can take the bottom half.”
- 3 But the farmer was clever. He planted potatoes because they grow in the ground. At harvest time, he gave the owner the potato tops, which are not good for anything.
- 4 The owner knew he had been outsmarted. He said, “Next year, I want the bottom half of your crops.”
- 5 So the next year the farmer planted oats, which grow at the top of long grasses. The bottom half is useless grassy straw. That’s what the farmer gave to the owner.
- 6 This time the owner said, “Next year, I’ll take the top and the bottom. You can have the middle.”
- 7 So this time, the farmer planted corn. At the top of each corn stalk are tassels. At the bottom are woody stalks. In the middle is where the tasty sweet corn grows.
- 8 For a third time, the owner had been outsmarted. Now it was the farmer’s turn to suggest a deal. “From now on,” he said, “why don’t you take half of whatever I grow? Whatever I get, you will get the same.”
- 9 This was a fair deal at last. From that day on, the owner and the farmer shared the crops equally.

Zel

the Gentle Donkey

A FOLKTALE FROM HAITI

- 1 Long ago, there was a gentle donkey named Zel. Everyone in town loved Zel because she was so pleasant and kind. But Zel's owner, Madame Charity, was angry and mean. She was so mean that she threw rocks at birds for singing too loud. She yelled at little boys when they laughed. But she was the meanest of all to poor Zel.
- 2 Every Saturday, Madame Charity sold sugar and rice at a market. Whoever arrived earliest sold the most. But Madame Charity always woke up late. Then she got angry and yelled at Zel, who had done nothing wrong.
- 3 In a huff, Madame Charity would then load heavy bags of rice and sugar onto Zel's back. Last, she climbed on top of it. "Hurry, Zel!" she yelled. "Get me to market as fast as you can!" Although Zel always trotted as fast as she could, it was never fast enough for Madame Charity.

4 One day, Zel's friend Touloulou the crab visited. "Did you have a good day at the market?" asked Touloulou.

5 "Madame Charity was mad at me all day. I work as hard as I can, but she is always mean to me."

6 "Madame Charity is always late. She won't blame herself, so she blames you," said Touloulou.

7 "Yes," said Zel. "And because everyone is afraid of her angry tongue, she never sells much at the market."

8 "I will help you," said Touloulou.

9 The next Saturday, Madame Charity woke up at 9 a.m. "Oh, no! I'm late again!" she yelled. As she tossed her heavy bags onto Zel's back, Touloulou the crab grabbed onto the hem of her long skirt. Madame Charity climbed on Zel's back. Touloulou held tightly to her skirt.

10 Zel started trotting. Madame Charity remembered how late she was. She opened her mouth to speak angrily, but Touloulou pinched her ankle.

11 “Ouch!” Madame Charity rubbed her ankle. She forgot how late she was. But soon she remembered. “Faster, Zel! Faster!” she yelled.

12 Again Touloulou pinched Madame Charity’s ankle.

13 “Ouch!” shouted Madame Charity.

14 When they got to the market, Madame Charity saw that someone had taken the stall she liked to use. In a fit of rage, Madame Charity opened her mouth to yell. For the third time, Touloulou pinched her ankle. Madame Charity screamed.

15 “What’s wrong?” people asked.

16 “Hurrying to get to market, I must have hurt my ankle. It’s very painful. Ouch! Ouch! Ouch!”

17 The fish seller said, “Madame Charity, you should get up earlier. Then you will not have to rush. Next week, I will wake you at 6 a.m.”

18 “Thank you,” said Madame Charity. She was surprised at the man’s kindness.

19 “Let me fix your ankle,” said the fruit seller. In the past, the fruit seller had not talked to Madame Charity. Today he felt sorry for her.

20 When Madame Charity saw how kind everyone was, she smiled. For the first time, she sold all of her rice and sugar. At the end of the day, she saddled Zel gently and rode quietly home.

21 From that day on, Madame Charity tried not to raise her voice in anger. Sometimes she got angry, but she kept it to herself. And Zel the gentle donkey was happy at last.

Think Use what you learned from reading the selection to respond to these questions.

- 1 Which detail in the first part of the story explains why Madame Charity is cruel to Zel?
 - A Zel does not walk to the market as fast as she is able to.
 - B Madame Charity is always angry and mean.
 - C Madame Charity does not have enough sugar and rice to sell.
 - D Everyone in town loves Zel because she is pleasant and kind.

- 2 Describe how Touloulou helps Zel.

- 3 This question has two parts. First, answer Part A. Then answer Part B.

Part A

What is the central message of this story?

- A Honesty is the best policy.
- B Kindness gets better results than anger.
- C Things are not always as they appear.
- D Beware of strangers.

Part B

Which sentence from the story is most important to the central message of the story?

- A "Madame Charity, you should get up earlier."
- B "Then she got angry and yelled at Zel. . . ."
- C "From that day on, Madame Charity tried not to raise her voice in anger."
- D "Today he felt sorry for her."

- 4 What is the meaning of the word market as it is used in this sentence from the story?

Every Saturday, Madame Charity sold sugar and rice at a market.

- A a store where food and spices are bought
- B a place where people buy and sell things
- C a street fair where people gather
- D a bank where money is exchanged

Write A central message of “Zel, the Gentle Donkey” is that being kind to others can cause good things to happen. Explain how the actions of the characters in the story show this central message.

- 5 Plan Your Response Make a list of things from the story that tell about the kindness of some of the characters.

- 6 Write an Extended Response Review the central message of “Zel, the Gentle Donkey.” Explain how the characters in the story help deliver this message. Use details from the story to support your answer.

Tools for Instruction

Determine Message, Lesson, or Moral

An important part of reading development is recognizing that a story is likely to convey a message or lesson, and learning how to read closely to determine it. Some stories teach a lesson explicitly, while other stories have lessons that are implied. Determining an implied lesson can be hard for readers because it requires them to go beyond retelling events to more sophisticated skills, such as analyzing details and making inferences. When teaching students how to determine the message, lesson, or moral of a story, it is helpful to use stories with stated and unstated morals so that students can gain confidence in finding the message as they progress from concrete to abstract thinking.

Three Ways to Teach

Analyze a Stated Message, Lesson, or Moral 20–30 minutes

Scaffold students' ability to determine the message in any story by analyzing stories with stated messages. Help them think about the way the author uses details and shapes events in order to teach a lesson.

- Choose a brief fable—a story with an explicitly stated moral—and read it aloud. Then model for students how to identify the moral and think about how the details in the story point to the lesson readers should learn. The following example is based on Aesop's "The Boy Who Cried Wolf."

In a fable, we are told the story's lesson at the very end. The lesson is called a moral. So what is the moral of this story? The last line says, "Nobody believes a liar, even when he is telling the truth!" Let's think about how the details in the story make this lesson clear. We read that the boy was bored and that he lied about seeing the wolf to amuse himself. We also read that the villagers were very upset that they had been tricked, especially the second time. When the boy really sees a wolf, nobody believes him. These details match the moral stated at the end, that "nobody believes a liar." No one in the village trusted the boy because of his lies.

- Distribute and display Message, Lesson, or Moral Chart, and work together to record details from the story on the chart. Explain to students that the chart is a useful way for them to see how details are connected to one moral or big idea.
- Then provide a selection of other fables for students to practice with independently. Have students work in pairs to read a fable and identify its moral, stated at the end. Have them use the message, lesson, or moral chart to connect story details to the overall lesson. Remind them to think carefully about characters' words and actions, as well as what happens and why.
- Invite pairs to share their work with the class.

Determine an Unstated Message, Lesson, or Moral 10–15 minutes

As students begin to read chapter books, teach them how to think about details and events in order to figure out the lesson the author wants readers to learn.

Choose a section from a current story, or reflect on an entire story that students have recently finished reading. Say, The author uses the key events in the story to show readers what can happen as a result of certain choices. The author expects us, as readers, to think about what we can learn from these events. Then model how to determine an unstated message by asking questions about what you read. The following example is based on Charlotte's Web, by E. B. White.

What decision did Charlotte make? (to write a message in her web)
Why did she make it? (to help save Wilbur from slaughter)
What happened because of that decision? (Wilbur was chosen for the fair.)
What did everyone learn? (Big or small, we can use what we have to help others.)

Point out that the answer to the last question is the author's message. Help students think about how this message applies to other stories they have read, and to their own lives.

Convey a Message, Lesson, or Moral 30–45 minutes

Connect to Writing Ask students to think of a lesson they would want to teach a younger sibling or friend. You might suggest lessons about telling the truth or being nice to one another. Tell them to write their lesson at the top of a piece of lined paper. Then have them each craft a brief story that effectively conveys their lesson. If students need additional support, you might organize them in pairs or small groups to brainstorm. Invite volunteers to share their stories with the class, and discuss the lessons in each story.

Check for Understanding

If you observe...	Then try...
difficulty identifying an unstated moral	first checking comprehension by asking them to retell or summarize the story in their own words. Then help them identify the moral using guiding questions such as these: What was the main character's problem? How did that problem get solved? Did you think the character did the right or wrong thing? What did we learn from this example?

Words for Time and Space

Introduction How can you help make your writing clear for readers? One way is to use words and phrases that explain when and where actions or events take place.

- Words and phrases that tell when show the time events happen or the order in which they happen. First, second, next, often, at noon, and in the morning are some words and phrases that tell when events happen.

When Plan your garden in the winter.

Recounting Stories

Learning Target

Retell or recount stories from around the world by telling key events in the order in which they happened.

- Read When you recount a story, you are retelling the story in your own words. Be sure that you include the key details and events that happened in the beginning, middle, and end. Tell the events in the sequence, or order, in which they happened.

Read this story. Think about what happens at the beginning, middle, and end. Then reread the story. What are the most important details?

A Bundle of Sticks

Long ago, a mother had three children who were always arguing. “Your arguing sounds worse than the clucking of all the hens in the world,” their mother told them. She wanted them to stop!

One day she got an idea. She gathered the children around her. Then she took a stick and broke it. “See how easy it is to break one stick?” she asked. Then she tied three sticks together. She asked each child to try to break the sticks. None of the children could break the bundle.

The mother told the children, “We’re just like the sticks. When we don’t stay together, our family is weak. When we stay together, nothing can break us apart.”

The children understood! From that day forward, they didn’t argue (as much).

- Think The chart below will help you to organize the most important details of a story. Think about what happened in the beginning, middle, and end of the story. Then add those details to the chart.

Brother and Sister

a folktale from Korea

- 1 Long ago, a brother and sister grew rice to sell. Through the long summer, they worked together to care for the rice paddies. In the fall, they harvested all the rice and put the rice into bags. Each got the same number of bags.
- 2 After one harvest, the brother announced he was soon to be married. The sister knew her brother would need money to buy a new house for his bride. She didn't feel the rice was divided fairly, so that night, she took an extra bag of rice to her brother's house in secret.
- 3 The brother, too, felt the rice was not divided fairly. His sister had a large family. She would need more rice. So that night, the brother took an extra bag to his sister's house in secret.
- 4 The next day, the brother and sister counted their rice bags. Strange! Both had the same number as before. So that night, when the moon was full, they made another attempt. In the moonlight, the brother and sister each saw the other carrying a bag of rice! They laughed. The mystery was solved.

HOW THE BAT GOT WINGS

◀◀ A CHEROKEE NATION TALE ▶▶

- 1 A long time ago, the bat was a tiny mammal. It had no wings. One day, the mammals and birds decided to play a game. The birds played on one team, and the mammals played on the other team.
- 2 The bat wanted to play with the mammals, but the mammals laughed at her size. “You are too small,” they said.
- 3 So the bat asked to play with the birds. The birds said, “You don’t have wings, but we can make you some out of a drum.” The birds stretched the skin of a drum into wings.
- 4 The birds put the wings on the bat and said, “Flap your wings.” The bat jumped off a tree and flapped her wings, but she didn’t fly in a straight line like the birds. Instead, she flew every which way in a crazy, zigzag pattern.
- 5 The birds let the bat play on their team. Just as she had done before, the bat flew in a crazy, zigzag pattern. The mammals on the other team could not catch the bat. The bat scored the winning points for the birds.
- 6 When the game was over, the mammals said, “Who is that superstar on your team?”
- 7 The birds said, “It is the bat. We gave her wings.”
- 8 The mammals did not know what to say. After all, they had refused to let the tiny bat play on their team. The mammals had learned their lesson. From that day on, they let any animal of any size play on their team.

True or False

a folktale from Myanmar (Burma)

- 1 There once were three poor brothers who loved to tell tall tales. They traveled throughout the countryside telling wild stories. They always claimed that their tales were true, but no one ever believed them.
- 2 One day, the three brothers met a rich traveler. The man was dressed in fine clothes and wore shining jewels. The brothers wanted his things. "Let's ask him to play a game. Each of the four of us will tell a tale of a past adventure. The rule is that if anyone doubts the truth of another's story, he must become that person's servant. The man will never believe our stories. Getting him to doubt our stories will be like rolling off a log. He will have to become our servant."
- 3 The others liked this plan. They did not want a servant. But they wanted the man's fine things. The man agreed to the game.
- 4 The first brother told a story of how he had climbed a tree and could not get down. So he ran to a nearby cottage and borrowed a rope.
- 5 The second brother told of jumping into the stomach of a tiger who wanted to eat him. "I made such a fuss that the tiger spit me out," he said.

- 6 The third told of helping the village fishermen. He said he turned into a fish and jumped into the river. There, he turned back into a man and killed the big fish that were eating all the little fish.
- 7 The rich man listened to the three tales without saying one word of disbelief. Then he told his story. He said he was searching for three servants who had run away from him.
- 8 “You three must be the ones I am looking for,” he said.
- 9 The brothers looked at him with alarm. If they doubted him, they must become his servants. That was their rule. But if they said his story was true, they would have to become his servants too!
- 10 They said nothing.
- 11 Finally, the man said he would let them go if they promised never to tell tall tales again.
- 12 The brothers agreed, and they kept their promise.

Following the Stars

by Krista O'Connell

1 “Wait up!” Robert said, hurrying along the forest path.

2 Jake stopped for a moment, letting his eyes adjust to the semi-darkness around him. Thankfully, there was plenty of moonlight. “You’re too slow,” he called. “Hurry up!”

3 “No, you’re too fast,” Robert replied with a smile. “Slow down!” This was a regular joke between the two boys. They had been friends for as long as either could remember. And they were as different as they could be.

4 But this evening, Jake wasn’t in the mood for joking. They were completing the final test for their summer nature camp. They had to find the North Star and follow it until they came to an open field. The counselors would be waiting for them beside a toasty warm campfire. Each of the boys wore a whistle. If either blew the whistle, it would be a signal they were lost.

5 Robert was calm. He had spent lots of time hiking, even at night. But his friend was in a rush and getting worried. This was Jake’s first time out of the city. He wanted to get to the safety of the campfire as quickly as he could. “I’m going to blow my whistle. What were they thinking letting us wander around the woods alone at night?” Jake griped, standing close to Robert.

6 “Take it easy!” Robert patted Jake on the back. “We just have to use what we learned. Let’s break it down into steps. We can do this!”

7 Jake took a deep breath. “Okay, okay. I guess we’re not in any danger yet. First things first, find the Big Dipper,” Jake said. The two boys stood still and looked up. For a moment, they forgot about their task and stood in awe of the sight. Away from the lights of the city, the black sky was bursting with stars.

8 But soon the boys remembered their job and began searching for the stars that formed the Big Dipper. “There!” Robert shouted, pointing his finger at a patch of stars.

9 Jake looked up to where Robert was pointing. He smiled when he saw a familiar shape among the tangle of stars. “Okay, let’s go,” Jake said, and started walking quickly away from their spot in the forest.

10 Robert grabbed his shoulder. “Wait, let’s take our time. We want to be sure we get it right,” Robert said, shaking his head. Jake was always jumping into things too fast. “What’s the next step?”

11 Jake sighed. “I guess you’re right. Okay, the next thing is to find the two stars at the end of the Big Dipper, on the side of the cup across from the handle,” Robert said.

12 “There they are,” Jake said. He pointed to the picture, and then up into the sky.

13 “Now, we just have to imagine a line connecting the stars. The end of the line should point to the North Star,” Robert recalled. They soon saw the star that shone brighter than many of the others around it. They began walking toward it, hoping their decision was the right one.

14 They didn’t have to travel far. Within minutes, they could see the warm glow of a campfire through the trees. When they proceeded into the clearing, everyone clapped and cheered. “Told you we wouldn’t need the whistle,” Robert told Jake with a grin and a friendly whack on the back.

15 “I guess you were right...for once,” Jake said, smiling. He was proud that he hadn’t given up and blown the whistle. As the friends walked toward the fire, they knew they would remember how those stars had helped them find their way, long after they returned home.

1 Which sentence from “Following the Stars” tells what Jake and Robert must do for their final test at camp?

- A “Jake stopped for a moment, letting his eyes adjust to the semi-darkness around him.”
- B “They were completing the final test for their summer nature camp.”
- C “They had to find the North Star and follow it until they came to an open field.”
- D “Within minutes, they could see the warm glow of a campfire through the trees.”

- A to stop Jake from walking into a clump of poison ivy
- B to get Jake to slow down and carefully find the North Star
- C to ask Jake to blow the whistle to let everyone know they are lost
- D to make Jake leave him alone in the woods

Baby Bird

One day Alec and Molly were walking through the park. Suddenly, they saw something move in the grass. It was a baby bird! It was small and round. It had fluffy brown feathers. But its mother was nowhere in sight.

Alec said "The baby bird must be lost."

The children walked closer. The baby bird tried to run away. They could see the scared feeling in its eyes.

Alec and Molly didn't know what to do.

"Let's pick it up so a cat won't get it, said Alec.

But Molly said that would scare the baby bird even more. Let's hide it under a box" she suggested.

Alec thought that was a bad idea. The mother bird would never find it under a box.

Finally the children decided to just watch and wait. “If a cat comes, we will chase it away,” they agreed.

So the children crawled behind a bush and watch quietly.

A long time went by. Nothing happened. No cats appeared, but the mother did not either. Molly and Alec grew more and more worried.

All of a sudden, they heard a bird chirping loudly. The baby bird chirped back. A yellow bird flew down. It was the baby birds mother! She gave her baby a bug that was in her beak. The baby bird ate it right up and chirped for more.

“Hooray!” Molly and Alec shouted. The baby bird wasn’t lost after all!
